She calls God — He is already calling her
She flings into His arms — He transforms her

Volume 34 — January 5, 1936

As the creature wants to do my Will in order to live and emit her acts in It, she calls her Creator, Who feels called by the power of His own Volition in the creature, in the face of which He cannot resist.

On the contrary, since We never let Ourselves be surpassed in love, as soon as We see that she is about to call Us, We give her no time, but We Ourselves call her, and she runs into Our Divine Being as into her own center, she flings herself into Our arms, and We clasp Her so tightly as to transform her into Ourselves.

What does it look like?

Each weekly gathering moves through five elements designed to engage the mind, the heart, the will, and the community:

A contemplative Presentation — unhurried and imagistic, oriented toward the heart's depths rather than mere intellectual understanding

The Prevenient Act — a prayer inviting God to act in us before we act, drawn from the spirituality of the Divine Will

The Healing Cry — a surrender prayer that permits Love to do the self-emptying: letting His Love become so large that it eclipses our false attachments, our fears, our wounds

A Brief Meditation — a guided imaginative or somatic prayer for use within the session and throughout the week

Journaling and Small Group Sharing — to ground the week's grace in personal experience and the companionship of a community making the journey together
